

Health system concerns

- Significant concern about naïve comparisons of suicide attempt/death rates across systems
 - BUT, these same health systems are sharing these data among themselves

How will health systems be identified in shared data sets?

They will not be – there is simply no way to obscure or de-identify participating health systems.

Legal/regulatory obstacles

Relatively simple to satisfy HIPAA requirements for de-identification.

Can primary analyses be replicated using shared data?

Yes – except for study site identifier.
